

Figure 1: Illustration of Chadwick's experimental setup to study the production of secondary particles when α particles hit a beryllium target.